The secretary stated he received many applications from persons who wished to market their products, services or experiences to an audience such as ourselves. If we were to offer cash or value $100, we would be inundated with applicants. Also our annual subscriptions would have to rise dramatically to cover 10 speakers per annum. Mary Rasmussen informed the meeting, speakers were given chocolates. The Secretary informed the meeting, Lindsay's recommendation would be tabled at the next committee meeting.

The President adjourned the meeting for morning tea at 10:25am.

Following morning tea, Guest Speaker Co-Ordinator Mary Rasmussen introduced Lachlan McLeod as our guest speaker for June. After obtaining Arts degrees, Lachlan and two friends became interested in studying Indians who wished to emigrate to Australia for a better life. They visited India to interview and study these people which lead them to become professional Documentary Film makers. As well as Documentary films, Lachlan saw the need for making documentaries of peoples family history as a business venture, which he is now doing. He showed a small sample of the type of family documentary available at various prices. It was an interesting talk supported by slides and a very short “family history” sample.

Following the guest speaker, the President thanked the members for attending and closed the meeting at 11:50am.

After morning tea, Mary Rasmussen introduced Guest Speaker Liz Langford from "Victorian Forests" who presented an interesting talk on "Victorian Forests" which is a State government Business with 'limited' permission to harvest trees, re-seed after coupling and after bushfires.
The business must make a profit and is completely controlled where and how it may harvest and sew. Liz also spoke of the quality of different types of timber and showed some samples to support her talk. Liz also having been an active member of CFA, was very knowledgeable about timbers, harvesting and re-seeding and caring for our forests. The talk was thoroughly enjoyed by the members. Following a vote of thanks to Liz, there being no further business, the Chairperson closed the meeting at 11:58am.
